

मदारी का नाच देखने
बहुत से लोग आने लगे।

मदारी के पास भालू था।

मदारी गाता था। भालू नाचता था।
मगर कोई उन्हें देखने नहीं आता था।

अब भालू ने गाना सीखा और मदारी
ने नाचना सीखा।
